We Love Your Data

One of the key features of EnergyPrint® is that we gather, simplify and maintain your energy data for every month, meter and property within your portfolio. This is no easy feat. Unless you have tried it yourself, you may not understand the difficulty and importance of this task. In fact, don't try this at home.

 Did you know that there are over 4000 utility companies across the country? Did you know that very rarely (if ever) do they share a consistent billing format?

Not only does EnergyPrint® translate those multiple formats into one understandable format, we insure your data is complete and accurate.

Monthly, we use measurement and validation tools to insure thousands of data points are accurately collected in a timely fashion insuring you have relevant metrics to drive your business decisions.

One example of this is our detailed "eligibility" algorithm. We hold ourselves accountable to have current meter data for every "complete" property in EnergyPrint®. Regardless of the reason why it may not be current, like if a utility has not created the bill in time or there was a flaw in the bill itself, we strive to have the most complete and current information possible. In fact, this month, we have achieved our highest yield to date – 99.18% for our entire "eligible" database.

Rest assured your data is our top priority!
